CHAIR

Manufacturer

Knoll Inc.

Description

The Barcelona Chair is a modernist lounge chair originally designed by Ludwig Mies van der Rohe and Lilly Reich for the German Pavilion at the 1929 International Exposition in Barcelona. It has been manufactured by Knoll Inc. since 1964 and is produced in both chrome and stainless steel frame options. The chair is almost entirely handcrafted, and each piece carries a facsimile of Mies van der Rohe's signature stamped into its frame. The design draws formal inspiration from the Roman Curule chair and is considered an enduring icon of Modernist furniture.

Dimensions

75 cm W × 75 cm D × 75 cm H (30 in × 30 in × 30 in)

Materials

Stainless steel (or chrome on steel) frame; tufted bovine leather cushions filled with foam

Finishes

Chrome on steel frame; stainless steel frame. Leather cushions available (specific color options not listed in source). Images depict tan/natural leather and black leather.

Important Specifications

- Design year: 1929; in continuous Knoll production since 1964
- Frame options: chrome on steel or stainless steel (seamless, redesigned 1950)
- Upholstery: tufted bovine leather over foam cushions
- Each chair is predominantly handcrafted
- Each frame carries a facsimile of Mies van der Rohe's signature

- Unlicensed reproductions are widely available; specify Knoll-authenticated product for licensed manufacture
- Schedule Key: U-01

Installation Notes

Freestanding lounge chair; no mounting or rough-in requirements noted in source.

Eames Lounge Chair and Ottoman (Model 670 and 671)

R-05

SECOND CHAIR

Manufacturer

Herman Miller (MillerKnoll)

Description

The Eames Lounge Chair (670) and Ottoman (671) is an iconic lounge seating set designed by Charles and Ray Eames, introduced in 1956 and continuously produced by Herman Miller (now MillerKnoll) in the United States. The chair is composed of three curved molded plywood shells—headrest, backrest, and seat—covered in wood veneer and fitted with leather upholstered cushions, mounted on an aluminum base. It was the first chair the Eameses designed for the high-end market and is part of the permanent collections of the Museum of Modern Art and other major institutions. The European market version is produced by Vitra.

Dimensions

Overall dimensions not specified in source. A larger "XL" (tall) version with higher and deeper sizing was introduced in 2008.

Materials

Molded plywood shells (seven layers) with wood veneer; leather upholstered seat, back, and headrest cushions; aluminum base and spines.

Finishes

Available veneer finishes include cherry, walnut, and palisander rosewood (sustainably grown). Cushion upholstery in leather; zipper color is black on current production. Earlier models featured Brazilian rosewood veneer (discontinued early 1990s).

Important Specifications

- Model numbers: Lounge Chair – 670; Ottoman – 671
- Introduced: 1956; in continuous production by MillerKnoll (United States) and Vitra (Europe)
- XL/tall version available (introduced 2008): offers higher and deeper sizing

- Current veneer finish options: cherry, walnut, palisander rosewood (sustainably grown)
- Brazilian rosewood veneer discontinued in early 1990s
- Authenticity label: curved embossed style on current (2000s–present) production
- Freestanding; aluminum five-star base with 'domes of silence' glides/feet
- Part of the permanent collection of the Museum of Modern Art, New York
- Source document: Wikipedia editorial article — manufacturer spec sheet data (dimensions, weight capacity, lead times, pricing) not available in this source

Installation Notes

Freestanding lounge chair; no wall mounting or rough-in required. Chair ships with aluminum base, plywood shells, and cushions for assembly. Current production uses hard plastic washers as spacers between aluminum spines and wood panels, and two screws securing each armrest.

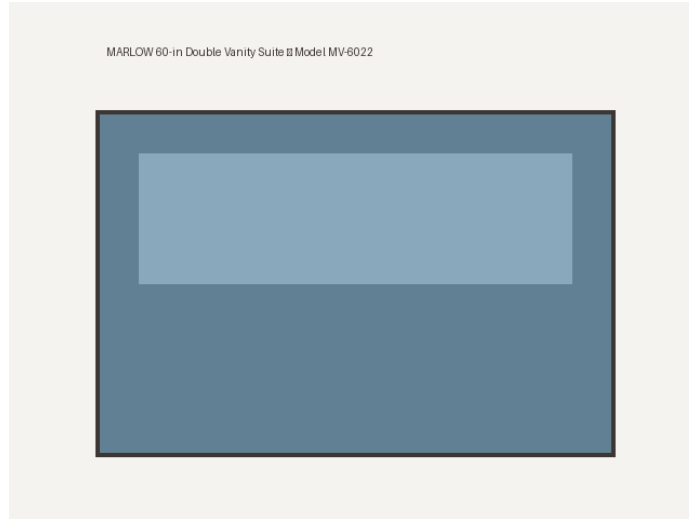

Care Notes

Care instructions not specified in source. Leather upholstery and wood veneer surfaces should be maintained per standard leather and wood care practices.
